Jennifer DePalma counsels private and public companies, as well as venture capital and private equity investors, on securities, general corporate and business law, mergers and acquisitions, joint ventures, venture capital and private equity financings, public equity offerings, and intellectual property transactions. Jennifer has significant experience in company- and investor-side representations in complex capital markets transactions, including initial public offerings and PIPEs, and venture capital and private equity financing transactions in the United States and Asia. She also represents publicly traded and privately held companies in both domestic and cross-border merger and acquisition transactions, leveraged buyout transactions, significant recapitalizations, corporate partnering arrangements, the formation of joint ventures, and other strategic alliances. Her experience includes serving as primary outside counsel to private and public companies.

Jennifer has significant cross-border experience representing companies in Asia, including in the People's Republic of China, and representing entities and funds investing in such companies. She has spent significant time in Hong Kong and Shanghai negotiating investments into Chinese companies by U.S. private equity firms.

Jennifer was formerly general counsel and head of operations for an emerging company in the financial technology industry.

Jennifer earned her J.D. from the University of Chicago. After law school, Jennifer served as a judicial clerk to the Honorable Edith Brown Clement on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. She earned her A.B., cum laude, from Princeton University.
