Jessica Wilson is a tax attorney with a broad range of experience in federal, state, local, and international tax matters. Jessica's practice includes representing businesses, individuals, families, and tax-exempt organizations in complex income, gift and estate, employment tax, property tax, and local San Francisco municipal tax matters. She has favorably litigated and settled income tax issues before the Internal Revenue Service, the United States Tax Court, and the California Franchise Tax Board, has obtained penalty abatement from the Internal Revenue Service and the Franchise Tax Board for her clients, and has prepared and submitted a number of private letter rulings with the Internal Revenue Service.

Jessica has extensive experience handling California property tax matters. She contests property tax reassessments and negotiates with California county assessors' offices relating to valuation of property, appears before California county Assessment Appeals Boards, advises on application and maintenance of the Welfare Exemption for tax-exempt organizations, and provides general planning related to structuring entities that hold California real property. Jessica's state and local practice also includes considerable experience with San Francisco Municipal Code taxes, including the Gross Receipts Tax, the Commercial Rents Tax, the Empty Homes Tax, the Parking Tax, and other local San Francisco taxes.

Jessica's experience also includes structuring and planning for partnerships, limited liability companies, S corporations, and C corporations, both on the tax and corporate side. She advises foreign clients on inbound investments in the United States and FATCA compliance, works with tax-exempt organizations to obtain and maintain tax-exempt status at federal, state, and local levels, and advises exempt organizations throughout the life of the organization.

Jessica supports the corporate and employment groups with employment-related tax issues, including the application of Internal Revenue Code Section 409A, and she advises on the employment and income tax consequences of equity compensation agreements. She also works closely with the estate planning practice and has provided tax analysis and oversight on a number of complex trust and estate matters, handling all income, gift, estate, property, local, or other tax issues that might arise.

Jessica earned her J.D. at the University of California College of Law, San Francisco (Hastings), where she served as Senior Production Editor of the Hastings Law Journal, and her B.A. in political science at California State University, Long Beach.

Honors & Awards

Jessica was included in the 2025 edition of the Best Lawyers: Ones to Watch® in America for her work in Tax Law. She was honored with the Justice & Diversity Center's Outstanding Volunteers in Public Service Award for her outstanding work with the Low Income Taxpayer Clinic.
