Leeza Arbatman focuses on privacy, intellectual property, and complex commercial litigation. She represents clients in a variety of industries, including AI, software, transportation, entertainment, municipal services, and food and beverage. On the privacy side, she counsels clients on mitigating liability risk and defends them when claims have been brought under different state and federal statutes related to wiretapping, data security, end-to-end encryption, and health and genetic information. On the intellectual property side, Leeza has wide ranging trademark and copyright counseling and defense experience.

Prior to joining Coblentz, Leeza was an associate with Morrison & Foerster. She clerked for the Honorable Steve Kim in the U.S. District Court for the Central District of California.

Leeza earned her J.D. from the UCLA School of Law. While in law school, she served as Co-Editor-in-Chief of the UCLA Journal of Law and Technology and as a Production Editor on the Journal of Free Speech Law. She was also a writing advisor for first-year law students and externed for Judges Christina Snyder and Susan Illston in the U.S. District Courts for the Central and Northern Districts of California, respectively. She received her B.A., magna cum laude, from the University of California, Santa Cruz.

Leeza is fluent in Russian.
