Troy Heisman litigates in a variety of different subject matters. He represents clients in complex commercial, employment, and white collar litigation and investigations. Troy litigates in state and federal court and has experience from pre-litigation through trial.

Prior to joining Coblentz, Troy was an associate with Liebert Cassidy Whitmore, where he provided advice and counsel on a variety of employment law matters. His practice focused on litigation, investigations, and public safety employment issues, including the Public Safety Officers Procedural Bill of Rights and the Firefighters Procedural Bill of Rights Act.

Troy also served as a member of the United States Navy Judge Advocate General Corps (JAGC), where he served as a prosecutor, defense counsel, and government attorney. In these roles, Troy oversaw the investigations of more than 200 cases, personally served as trial team leader for a 50 case docket, and tried 7 jury trials to verdict. His experience ranges from administrative hearings to jury trials on employment, harassment, violence, and performance issue matters.

Troy earned his J.D. from the University of North Carolina School of Law, where he was awarded the Eugene Gressman and Daniel H. Politt Oral Advocacy Award for Best Appellant Argument. He worked as the Articles & Notes Editor at the First Amendment Law Journal and was an active member of the Moot Court Corporate Appellate Advocacy Team. Troy earned his B.A. in History with Departmental Honors from the University of San Diego.
